General Approach to Teaching Physical Interventions:

All aspects are taught from the least restrictive alternative. The reality of individuals, their experiences, trauma history and medical issues are considered within training. Recertification occurs with an annual two day refresher alongside the theoretical aspects of the training. Competency is tested and all attendees must achieve a minimum of eighty five percent pass in theory and physical skills. In all training the object is to reduce the need for seclusion and reduce the duration and frequency of restrictive practices.
