The benefits of BILD is one of the leading learning disabilities organisations in the UK. Founded in 1971, BILD has remained at the forefront by highlighting what needs to change, and how.

Our members are important to us in this work, helping to spread the message about the need for change, sharing experiences and new ideas, and promoting good practice.

By joining BILD you can share our knowledge, link up with other members, and receive the latest information in your field of interest. This can also help demonstrate your commitment to personal or organisational development.

As this leaflet shows, we have a range of benefits to offer you as a member, including a choice of free journal subscription, a monthly information service and e-newsletter, as well as discounts on BILD journals. We know you will be proud to be a BILD member, so we also have a 'BILD Member' logo you can use on information materials.

Members of BILD include:

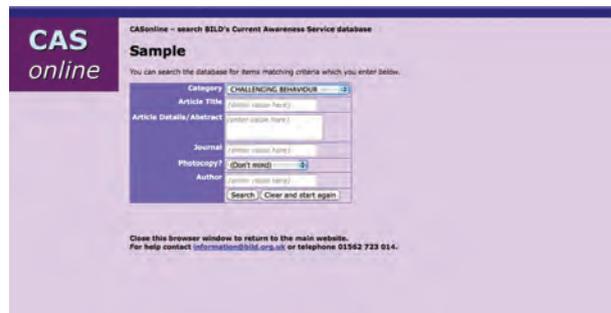

- People with learning disabilities and family carers
- People working in many fields, including health, education and social care
- Students and learners studying in a wide range of subjects
- Groups and organisations of all sizes in the public, private and voluntary sectors
- Local authorities, health trusts, schools and colleges

To join BILD, you can either call us on 01562 723015, post this form to the address on the back page, or visit our website where you can join online at www.bild.org.uk/membership

eCAS

We tell you what's new in learning disabilities each month through our Current Awareness Service (see opposite), which is sent free to most members by email as eCAS. Those who don't receive it free can choose it as their free journal choice.

CASonline

CASonline is an online database where you can search through references to over 40,000 journal articles, books and research covering all aspects of learning disabilities. Covering more than 20 years of publications, the database is updated monthly. Access to CASonline is free to most BILD members. Many of the articles can be obtained from BILD as a photocopy or scan sent to you by email for a small charge.

The BILD Members' newsletter

The newsletter gives updates on BILD's work as well as advance notice of BILD events, publications and other services and is sent to all BILD members by email each month.

BILD membership

Discounts on conference places

BILD members enjoy significant discounts on BILD conference delegate fees.

Discounts on training

Organisational members can benefit from discounts on in house training and consultancy across a wide range of subjects, delivered by experienced BILD trainers and consultants.

Networking opportunities

Membership gives you the chance to share your interests and learn from the experiences of others. We use a BILD LinkedIn group to enable members to connect with each other.

Free journal choices for BILD members

Most categories of BILD membership offer a choice of a free journal. Organisational members can receive up to ten free journal subscriptions depending on their category. The journals you can choose from are:

British Journal of Learning Disabilities

The official journal of BILD is thought by many to be the leading journal of its type in the field of learning disabilities. Published quarterly. Individual members may choose the print or online version as their free journal; organisation members can choose the print version free and may subscribe to the online version with a 15% discount.

Journal of Applied Research in Intellectual Disabilities

JARID draws together findings derived from original applied research in the field of intellectual disabilities and is considered one of the leading research journals in the field. Published six times a year. Individual members may choose the print or online version as their free journal; organisation members can choose the print version free and may subscribe to the online version with a 15% discount.

The BILD Current Awareness Service

Produced by BILD, this is a service that keeps readers up to date with everything new in learning disabilities, listing new books and resources, journal articles and courses, as well as news and events. Published monthly, with a ring binder and 12 inserts sent by post.

Our services are here to support your development

Can we help you?

We believe the best way to deliver support is to focus on each individual and use person centred approaches. However, getting this right isn't always easy and being able to get external help and expertise can sometimes make a big difference.

We can help you. Work with BILD and you can benefit from the expertise an independent organisation with a reputation based on 40 years' experience can bring. We can help review the quality of your support, and do this in partnership with people with learning disabilities and family carers. We can help develop your workforce and the leaders within your organisation, and we offer specialist support in a wide range of areas, from positive behaviour support – including restraint reduction – to keeping people safe.

BILD Qualifications – supporting your success

Taking a health and social care qualification helps develop your knowledge and skills and provides national recognition for your work. A qualified workforce can help an organisation improve the support it offers to people with learning disabilities, and is evidence to commissioners and inspectors of the quality of your support.

BILD has more than ten years' experience of supporting learning disability and advocacy workers to successfully complete national qualifications.

Training in your workplace – just as you want it

BILD Training offers you high quality and practical training programmes tailored to your needs, delivered in your workplace by experts in the field of learning disabilities and autism.

Training larger groups can offer better value on a tight budget, help staff develop their skills in supporting people with learning disabilities, and contribute to their continuous professional development.

BILD Events – great learning opportunities

Attending our conferences means you get to hear from great speakers, participate in workshops that share knowledge and experience, and gain credits towards your continuous professional development.

Our events bring experienced trainers and the people providing support together, to pass on ideas about new approaches and explore good practice.

Books and Journals that support your professional development

BILD is the UK's leading publisher of books and journals that develop policy and improve practice for those supporting people with a learning disability. Written by experts, some books aim to help people plan services and deliver support in person centred ways, others campaign to improve rights and respect for people with learning disabilities. BILD's journals are among the most respected in their field.

Let us help keep you up to date – join BILD

BILD membership will keep you informed about the latest developments in learning disabilities and can show – whether an individual or an organisation – that you value your professional development.

If you would like to know more about any of our services call 01562 723010 or email enquiries@bild.org.uk or visit www.bild.org.uk
