Positive behavioural support (PBS) combines the conceptual framework of applied behaviour analysis with the values base of social role valorisation and framework of person-centred approaches.

The International Journal of Positive Behavioural Support is a peer-reviewed publication that aims to:

- define and promote good practice in relation to the use of PBS
- add to the evidence base regarding such interventions
- demonstrate how PBS interventions can support people to change their challenging behaviours, improve their quality of life, and result in reductions in the use of restrictive procedures (such as physical intervention, seclusion and as required medication)
- bridge the gap between academic research and service practice

Articles published in the 2012 issue include:

- The impact of a whole-organisation approach to positive behavioural support on the use of physical interventions
- Using contingency diagrams in the functional assessment of challenging behaviour
- Implementing positive behavioural support in practice: the views of mediators and consultants
- The impact of the quality of behaviour support plans on the use of restraint and seclusion in disability services
- Outcomes of a ‘Train the Trainers’ approach to an acceptance based stress intervention in a specialist challenging behaviour service

A call for papers
The editors welcome enquiries about submitting papers for the International Journal of Positive Behavioural Support Journal. More details, including guidelines for authors, can be download from the BILD website at www.bild.org.uk/ijpbs or enquiries to ijpbs@bild.org.uk
