General Approach to Teaching Physical Interventions

Behaviour Management (including physical intervention) training's core focus is the proactive management of behaviour; reinforcing positive strategies and applying a strong 'values led process' to practice in working with people who display challenging behaviour.

The 4 day course covers a range of theory, practical and physical skills that are vital tools in the management of behaviour.

Physical skills are delivered within the context of behavioural support, positive behaviour management and as a last resort measure. The training covers key references to current legislation and application into practice.

All training adheres to the BILD Code of Practice, and agreed values and principles within this field which include de-escalating behaviour, last resort, best interests of the service user, non pain-compliance, legal & ethical issues and prevention NOT punishment.

Participants are given sufficient time and support to work through all the elements of the course to ensure they leave with confidence.
