

Edwin Jones PhD, is Service Improvement and Research Lead, in the Mental Health and Learning Disabilities Delivery Unit at Swansea Bay Health Board, UK. He is closely involved in service improvement, training and policy development focussing on Positive Behavioural Support. He runs and was co-developer of three accredited e-learning qualifications in PBS. Dr Jones is an honorary fellow at the University of South Wales, external examiner at the university of Glasgow, visiting lecturer at the International

University of Catalonia, Barcelona, and an editorial board member of several journals. Edwin is vice chair of the UK APBS Alliance, and a member of the British Institute of Learning Disabilities (BILD) Professional Council, The Restraint Reduction Network (RNN), The PBS academy and the SF Darrin PBS research network. He chairs the All Wales Challenging Behaviour Community of Practice and is a member of the Welsh Government Learning Disability Ministerial Advisory Group. Previously, he was a Senior Research Fellow at The Welsh Centre for Learning Disabilities, University of Wales, Cardiff, where he co-developed Active Support. Edwin has also previously worked for Shelter Cymru, and as a senior manager in third sector community based support providers. His main interests include Positive Behavioural Support, Challenging Behaviour, Active Support and Practice Leadership and he has published and presented extensively on these issues. Edwin speaks Welsh and is interested in developing understanding of his main research interests in other languages and cultural contexts.