

For too long, people with learning disabilities have experienced health and wellbeing inequalities.

People with learning disabilities die of things that other people wouldn't, at a younger age, with less good quality care.

People with learning disabilities should have the same quality of life as everyone else, especially as they grow older.

Bild looks at people's health throughout their life journey. Good health and care in early life sets us up to live well in older age.

Bild considers other important areas that affect people's health and wellbeing, such as their homes, their communities, their friends and families and their day to day lives.

Because Bild wants to make sure that people live long, happy, healthy lives.
